Nurturing the Whole Child

How do you envision a Whole Child?

Here's a little exercise for you. We have a number of attributes listed below. Place these stickers along the dotted lines around the child. The closest orbit to the child's face represents what you think is best for your child.

A little compassion for others

The ability to feel for others is far more important than academics and needs to be nurtured from a young age. By infusing and integrating empathy and kindness into the curriculum, the school makes these values a part of each child's identity.

Mrs. Gowri Ishwaran
Padma Shri

Founder Principal of Sanskriti School

A little creativity to dream

Creativity is nourished in the school—with challenges and goals that excite students and drive them to dream big, with the freedom that enables them to push the boundaries and be bold and, with the support that gives them the courage to correct their mistakes and continue experimenting.

Dr. Pramath Sinha

Founder Dean ISB
Founder Ashoka University

A little confidence to face the world

Confidence is not the lack of fear but the ability to give every opportunity your best shot. The school lays down the foundation for children to make the right choices and conquer challenges to become the truest versions of themselves.

Let's EMBRACE the changing world, TOGETHER!

The need for emotional resilience has been re-established in the course of the pandemic. For an uninterrupted and immersive educational experience we have built an integrated social-emotional learning framework (SEL) and a comprehensive hybrid learning design.

Our SEL framework creates a community where everyone feels they belong, feels they have purpose and feels they can grow.

Bringing Children Closer to Nature

Words like 'sustainability' and 'conservation' take on a new meaning for our children when they engage directly with our living Horti-labs and patches of organic and edible gardens. One of the key objectives behind our green efforts is to inculcate a 'sustainability mindset' among children. To give our students a hands-on experience of responsible living, our campus is energy-efficient.

Inviting Learning Spaces

Learning spaces must expand to span the whole surrounding of a child. On our sprawling 5-acre campus your child gets a stimulating environment in and out of the classroom. They can explore and sustain their natural curiosity and inquisitiveness in our thoughtfully designed makerspace, cultural café, open reading corners, multi-purpose hall and writing walls.

Ensuring an Active Lifestyle for Every Child

With an exemplary range of competitive and non-competitive sporting opportunities, we aim to provide our students with every opportunity to practise the sport of their choice. Our two temperature controlled swimming pools, yoga centres, squash court, basketball court, tennis court and football turf, will be their play-and-learn ground with a team of best coaches guiding them.
